(Under)developpement

In economics, underdevelopment is when resources are not used to their full socio-economic potential compared to the countries elevated as standard

In economics, development is the transformation of a country's economy from, mainly, a subsistence agriculture to a modern, urbanized manufacturing and service economy.

Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UN 1948)

Art. 22 — Everyone, as a member of society, has the right to social security and is entitled to realization, [...], of the economic, social and cultural rights indispensable for his dignity and the free development of his personality. [...]

Art. 23 — Everyone has the right to work, to free choice of employment, to just and favourable conditions of work and to protection against unemployment.

Art. 24 — Everyone has the right to rest and leisure, including reasonable limitation of working hours and periodic holidays with pay.

Art. 25 — Everyone has the right to a standard of living adequate for the health and well-being of himself and of his family, including food, clothing, housing and medical care [...]

Art. 26 — Everyone has the right to education. Education shall be free, at least in the elementary and fundamental stages. [...] It shall promote understanding, tolerance and friendship among all nations, racial or religious groups.[...]

Human development

The main objective of human development is to broaden the range of choices available to the population, which makes development more democratic and more participatory. These choices must include opportunities to access income and employment, education and health care, and a clean and safe environment.

The individual must also have the possibility to fully participate in the decisions of the community and to enjoy human, economic and political freedoms ”.

Indicator /index

An indicator is a tool for evaluation and decision support by which we will be able to measure a situation or a trend, in a relatively objective way, at a given moment, or in time and / or space. There must be a causal relationship between the fact being measured (indicated) and the indicator. One indicator can aggregate others. For an aggregate indicator, we more often speak of an index.

1) HDI

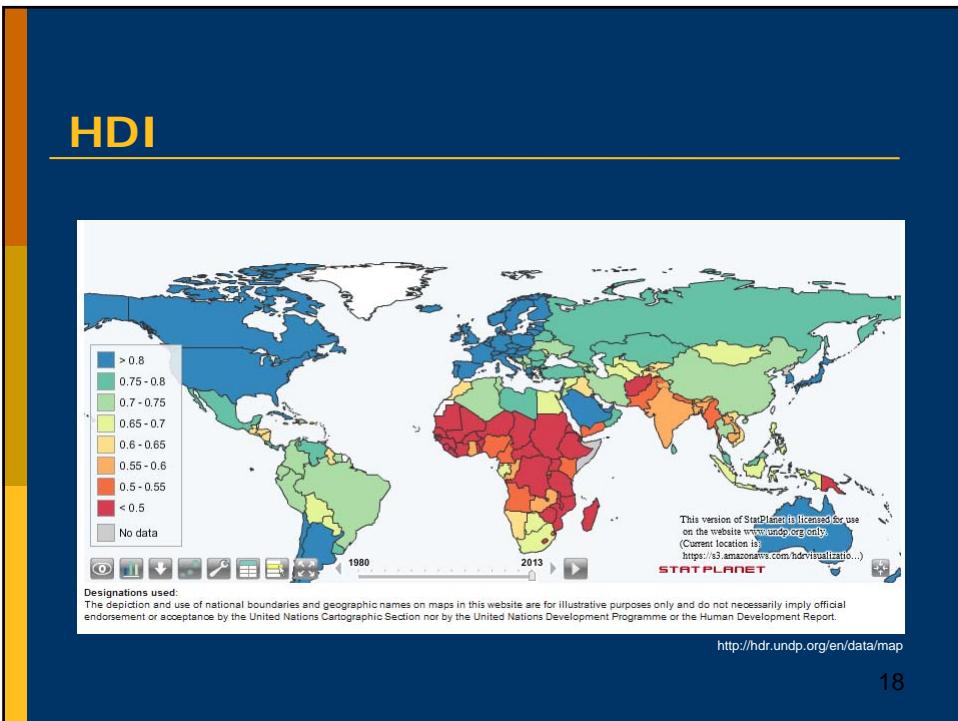

L'indice de développement humain (IDH) est un indice statistique composite, créé par le Programme des Nations Unies pour le Développement (PNUD) en 1990 pour évaluer le taux de développement humain des pays du monde. L'IDH se fondait alors sur trois critères :

1. le PIB par habitant.
2. l'espérance de vie à la naissance et
3. le niveau d'éducation des enfants de 15 ans et plus.

L'indicateur de développement humain IDH-2

L'IDH-2 est un outil d'évaluation du développement humain en Île-de-France qui reprend les trois dimensions de l'IDH (santé, éducation, niveau de vie) mais avec des indicateurs mieux adaptés à la situation régionale et disponibles à l'échelle communale.

- Éducation ou la capacité d'accéder à l'éducation et aux connaissances : part de la population de 15 ans et plus non scolarisée diplômée du bac ou d'un diplôme d'études supérieures
- Revenu ou la capacité d'accéder aux ressources matérielles indispensables pour atteindre un niveau de vie décent : médiane des revenus déclarés
- Santé ou la capacité de bénéficier d'une vie longue et saine (être en bonne) : espérance de vie des deux sexes calculée sur une période de 5 ans

Les indicateurs représentatifs de chacune de ces trois dimensions sont chacun ramenés à des indices compris entre 0 et 1. La valeur de l'IDH-2 est la moyenne arithmétique des trois indices

Poverty indexes

Poverty" defined as an economic condition of lacking both money and basic necessities needed to successfully live, such as food, water, education, healthcare, and shelter. There are many working definitions of "poverty," with considerable debate on how to best define the term. Income security, economic stability and the predictability of one's continued means to meet basic needs all serve as absolute indicators of poverty. Poverty may therefore also be defined as the economic condition of lacking predictable and stable means of meeting basic life needs.

national poverty line —the poverty line deemed appropriate for a country by its authorities. National estimates are based on population-weighted subgroup estimates from household surveys. Definitions of the poverty line may vary considerably among nations. In 2008, in the United States of America, the poverty threshold for a single person under 65 was US$ 30 a day

2) The Human Poverty (HPI)

26

The Human Poverty Index (HPI)

The Human Poverty Index is an indication of the standard of living in a country, developed by the United Nations (UN) and can be summarized as "A composite index measuring deprivations in the three basic dimensions captured in the human development index — a long and healthy life, knowledge and a decent standard of living.«

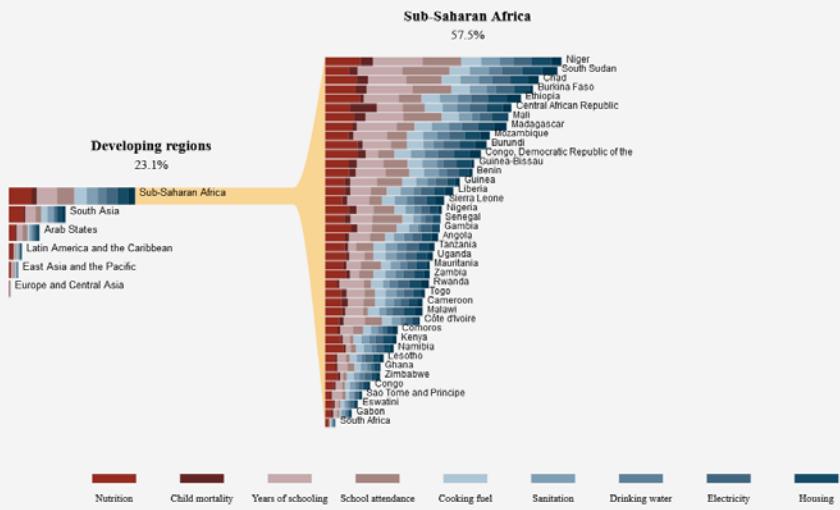

$$\text{HPI-1} = \left[\frac{1}{3} (P_1^\alpha + P_2^\alpha + P_3^\alpha) \right]^{\frac{1}{\alpha}}$$

- P_1 : Probability at birth of not surviving to age 40 (times 100)
- P_2 : Adult illiteracy rate
- P_3 : population without adeq. access to an improved water source (un-weighted average)
- α : = 3 coeff

GINI

Gini coefficient

The Gini coefficient is usually defined mathematically based on the Lorenz curve (below). It can be thought of as the ratio of the area that lies between the line of equality and the Lorenz curve (marked 'A' in the diagram) over the total area under the line of equality (marked 'A' and 'B' in the diagram); i.e., $G=A/(A+B)$.

While most developed European nations and Canada tend to have Gini indices between 24% (Denmark) and 36% (France), the United States' and Mexico's Gini indices are both above 40 and 60% for Brazil, indicating that the latter have greater inequality.

Purchasing Power Parity (PPP)

Purchasing Power Parity (PPP) of Gross Domestic Product for the countries of the world as of 2003. The economy of the United States is used as a reference, so that country is set at 100. Bermuda has the highest index value, 154, thus goods sold in Bermuda are 54% more expensive than in the United States.

38

PPP - Big Mac Index

An example of one measure of PPP is the Big Mac Index popularized by The Economist which looks at the prices of a Big Mac burger in McDonald's restaurants in different countries. If a Big Mac costs USD$4 in the U.S. and GBP£3 in Britain, the PPP exchange rate would be £3 for $4. The Big Mac Index is presumably useful because it is based on a well-known good whose final price, easily tracked in many countries, includes inputs from a wide range of sectors in the local economy, such as agricultural commodity prices (beef, bread, lettuce, cheese), labor (blue and white collar), advertising, rent and other estate costs, transportation, etc. The Big Mac Index is inaccurate in certain countries because of the different market conditions that exist in differing McDonald's locations.

Poverty is more than money

David Gordon's paper, "Indicators of Poverty & Hunger", for the United Nations, further defines absolute poverty as the absence of any two of the following eight basic needs:[2]

- Food availability: Body Mass Index must be above 16.
- Safe drinking water: Water must not come from solely rivers and ponds, and must be available nearby (less than 15 minutes' walk each way).
- Sanitation facilities: Toilets or latrines must be accessible in or near the home.
- Health: Treatment must be received for serious illnesses and pregnancy.
- Shelter: Homes must have fewer than four people living in each room. Floors must not be made of dirt, mud, or clay.
- Education: Everyone must attend school or otherwise learn to read.
- Information: Everyone must have access to newspapers, radios, televisions, computers, or telephones at home.
- Access to services: This item is undefined by Gordon, but normally is used to indicate the complete panoply of education, health, legal, social, and financial (credit) services.

(Prebisch–Singer hypothesis)

DEPENDANCE THEORY

« "The poorest countries have an obligation to provide natural resources or cheap labor to the richer countries. These obligations are the result of the history of colonization. »
(1940)

« The richest countries have put in place a set of constraints (legal, financial, technical and others) which have made the poorest countries dependent. These constraints are, among other things, the result of a deficient technology transfer between the rich countries which export technology and the poor countries of the South which lack it.»

43

Economic dominance

"We, politely referred to as 'underdeveloped', in truth are colonial, semi-colonial or dependent countries. We are countries whose economies have been distorted by imperialism (read: liberalism), which has abnormally developed those branches of industry or agriculture needed to complement its complex economy.
'Underdevelopment', or distorted development, brings a dangerous specialization in raw materials, inherent in which is the threat of hunger for all our peoples. We, the 'underdeveloped', are also those with the single crop, the single product, the single market. A single product whose uncertain sale depends on a single market imposing and fixing conditions. That is the great formula for imperialist (read: industrialized countries) economic domination."

Che Guevara 1961

Neo-colonialism

Neocolonialism describes an (imperialist) policy pursued by an (ex) colonial power towards its former colony, using various methods of influence and domination, for its own benefit as well as that of its businesses. The term, which originated with Jean-Paul Sartre in 1956, was used for the first time in a speech by Kwame Nkrumah, in 1965.

The term Plan Colombia is most often used to refer to U.S. legislation aimed at curbing drug smuggling by supporting in Colombia.^[1] Plan Colombia also originally proposed by Colombian Arango, which contemplated the it was not limited to it. The plan was 1999 by the administration of with the goals of social and ending the armed conflict and creating an anti-drug strategy. The most controversial element of the anti-narcotic strategy is aerial fumigation to eradicate coca. This activity has come under fire because it damages legal crops and has adverse health effects upon those exposed to the herbicides. Critics of the initiative also claimed that elements within the Colombian security forces, which received aid and training from it, were involved in supporting or tolerating abuses by the now largely dismantled right-wing paramilitary forces against left-wing guerrilla organizations and their sympathizers.

Veolia Environnement Europe Services: lobbying and fiscal relief in Brussels

The Veolia EU office in Brussels has a representational role: keeping up with EU legislative work and reporting to headquarters, analysing EU legislation impacts on the group's activities and liaising with internal specialists, networking with MEPs, European Commission (EC) officials and other industrial partners, identifying and where possible exploiting opportunities for new activities.

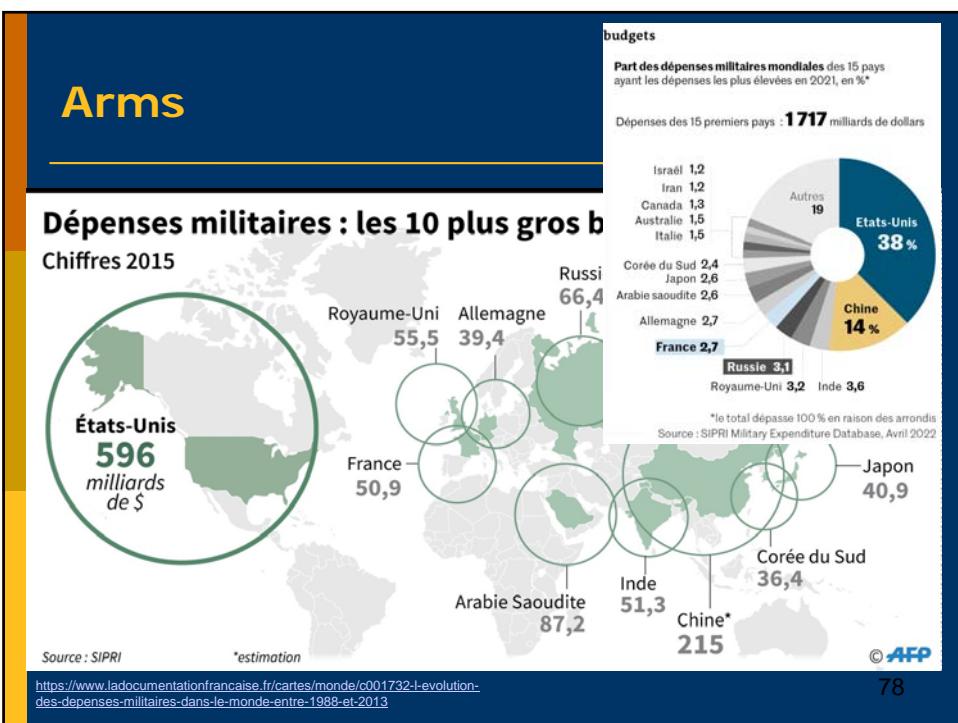

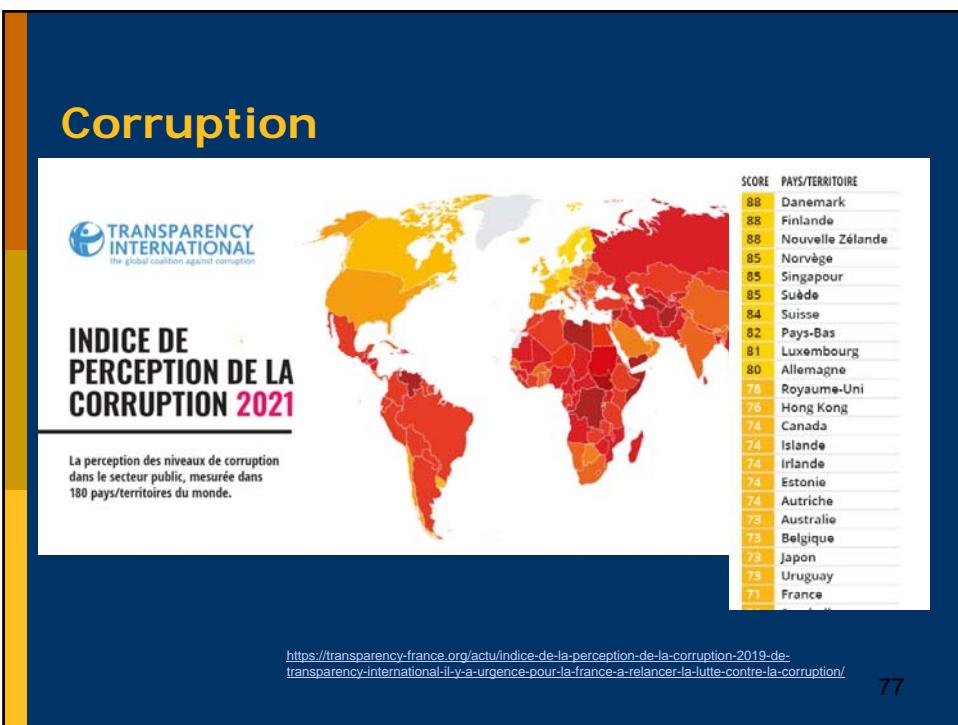

In early 2008, the office was incorporated into a new company, Veolia Environnement Europe Services, developing its remit to "finance or facilitate the short, medium or long-term financing of the group it belongs to, or companies this group wants to finance"¹³. On the 31 January 2008, the capital of this new company was increased from €100,000 to almost €2.5 billions (€2,440,100,000)¹⁴, transferred in cash. Belgium recently introduced new fiscal measures on companies' capital, known as the notional interests' deduction, allowing companies to substantially alleviate their taxable base according to their equity capital.

1.1 EU water policies, the private vs. public debate and Veolia

In the water delivery sector, there are at least three main water management models: complete privatisation as in the (sole) case of the UK, direct public management (the dominant model in most European countries), and public private partnership (PPP), which has been the dominant model in France for the last 150 years. Because of this diversity and the controversies around handing over water services to the private sector, previous attempts by the European Commission to define water delivery as a service like any other, ruled by EU Competition law and a tendering of contracts on the EU-wide market, have met opposition. The European Commission has therefore approached the topic with care - at least within the EU.

Etats-Unis
L'Amérique veut bien parler (un peu) de réforme ou de régulation des marchés financiers à la condition que cela ne contrarie pas le supranational et toutes mesures trop réglementaires. Pourtant, l'Amérique a tout et revient malin chez soi, telles sont ses principales revendications. Quant au FMI, l'administration américaine voit dans le fonds monétaire qu'il s'affranchisse de sa tutelle.
Alliés : Canada et Australie

Union européenne
L'UE compte bien réussir autour de sa feuille de route, établie le 7 novembre, une vraie majorité au sein des pays du G20. Deux idées fortes : une régulation plus forte et une lutte contre certaines institutions comme les hedge funds et surtout un élargissement des mandats et des pouvoirs du FMI. Ce dont ne veulent pas les Etats-Unis : la Russie, les pays émergents comme le Brésil, l'Argentine, l'Afrique du Sud, et dans une moindre mesure l'Inde.

Brésil
Le président Lula, dont le pays assure la présidence tournante du G20, défend une plus grande représentation des pays émergents au sein du FMI et de la Banque mondiale. Et il soutient autre institution qui naîtrait d'une réforme de la gouvernance financière. Le chef de l'Etat n'exclut pas que les pays émergents représentés au G20 déclarent une proposition commune pour sortir de la crise.

SUGAR
Subsidized EU sugar lower export prices by a third, causing losses for Brazil ($494m), South Africa ($151m) and Thailand ($60m)

COTTON
In 2001 U.S. cotton subsidies cost Burkina Faso and Mali 1%-3% of their GDP
Fall in cotton prices increased Benin's poverty rate from 37% to 59% in 2001-2002

Decentralized cooperation

La coopération décentralisée englobe toutes les relations d'amitié, de jumelage ou de partenariat nouées entre les collectivités locales d'un pays et les collectivités équivalentes d'autres pays. Plus généralement, on y inclut différentes formes d'assistance ou d'échanges d'expériences avec des structures publiques locales étrangères pour que ces expatriés établissent des contacts privilégiés avec les collectivités territoriales qui s'y impliquent.

Dans un contexte où la coopération gouvernementale et la coopération multilatérale sont soumises à des critiques sévères de la part d'acteurs non-gouvernementaux, qui les soupçonnent de favoriser des intérêts privés importants (banques, grandes entreprises du Nord), la coopération décentralisée représente une forme de coopération plus horizontale, qui correspond mieux à une nouvelle vision de la gouvernance et notamment d'une Europe des régions.

consum'actor

The consum'actor is a consumer who reappropriates the act of consumption by using his purchasing power to protect the values and causes he defends.

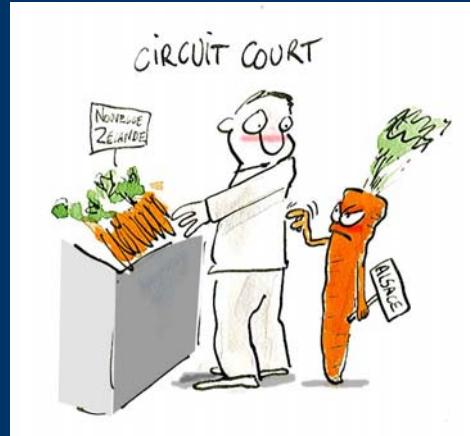

Fair trade is a trading partnership based on dialogue, transparency and respect, the objective of which is to achieve greater fairness in world trade. It contributes to sustainable development by offering better trading conditions and by guaranteeing the rights of marginalized producers and workers, especially in the South of the planet.

L'Île aux fleurs

L'Île aux fleurs (1989, Brésil) un film de Jorge Furtado

http://www.dailymotion.com/video/x13fp_ile-aux-fleurs_creation

La tomate, plantée par Monsieur Suzuki, échangée contre de l'argent avec le supermarché, échangée contre l'argent que Madame Anete a échangé contre des parfums extraits des fleurs, refusée pour la sauce du porc, jetée aux ordures et refusée par les porcs comme aliment, est maintenant disponible pour les êtres humains de l'Île aux fleurs.

Ce qui place les êtres humains après les porcs dans la priorité de choix des aliments, c'est le fait de n'avoir ni argent, ni propriétaire.
